ABSTRACT

"Mythical Defense: Legends of the Philippines" is a tower defense mobile game designed to entertain players while integrating elements of Filipino mythology into gameplay. In an era where mobile gaming has become a ubiquitous form of leisure, this study delves into the unique blend of entertainment and cultural exploration offered by the game. The aim of this project is to enhance user likability and satisfaction toward strategy games specifically tower defense genre.

To address this issue, the team developed a thorough solution by incorporating Filipino beliefs and mythical creatures into the game while carefully considering the positive effects on users.

We incorporated features that address common concerns in tower defense games creating a challenging yet entertaining gaming experience. By providing a distinctive feature to the game, the study aims to reduce the factors leading to users deleting or losing interest in strategy games.

The game was created using Unity as the main platform for the development, Krita, and Photoshop were utilized in this project.

As a result, the developed game Mythical Defense has effectively fulfilled all specified requirements, guaranteeing an immersive and pleasurable gaming experience. The developed game provides challenging and entertaining game to play and features Philippines' mythology.

Chapter 1

INTRODUCTION

Background of the Study

Mythology comes from the Greek term 'mythologia', which is derived from the word "mythous legein", which translates to "to tell myth". Myths are an important part of every culture. Myths introduce people and the beliefs and practices of a community. These stories and tales are passed on from generation to generation and these are used to explain the origins of things and phenomena that contributed to the development of a certain civilization. Sometimes, these were also used to explain unprecedented events that happen around the world. To understand these texts better, people resort to mythology, the study and interpretation of myths and tales that deal with human conditions and phenomena (Mark, 2018).

Philippine culture is known to have been heavily influenced by European-American colonization, but before these countries came, the country already had its own established culture, which is now being preserved and passed on to the next generations. This includes the different literary forms and arts. The pre-colonial literary arts were recorded by Spanish, Chinese, Arabic, and other past chroniclers. This showcases folk speeches, folk songs, folk narratives, indigenous rituals, and mimetic dances that correlate with other Southeast Asian neighbors. Apart from research and studies, these narratives can also be seen in mainstream media as part of the entertainment, which somehow reduces the cultural truth and value of these myths as people often consider them stories made by people's fictitious minds (Sugue, A. S., & Reyes, M. M., 2022).

In order to preserve these stories and tales, our ancestors passed it to the next generations through storytelling as a way of entertainment and teaching tools. They used a memorable and engaging way to convey important knowledge, skills, guidance, and tradition while strengthening their relationship with the people and build their sense of unity. Throughout history, humankind has used narrative images to tell stories. And in the 20th century, animated films evolved from classics like Aladdin to advanced CGI creations like Toy Story. The gaming industry also progressed, with illustrators contributing to visually striking video games (Reed, n.d.).

Gaming has become a global phenomenon, with millions of people of all ages and backgrounds playing on different platforms. Video games are any of various interactive games played using a specialized electronic gaming device, computer, mobile device, television, or other display screen, along with a means to control graphic images.

Video games with social activity can be beneficial to psychological well-being, they can also positively affect prosocial behavior, which we define here as a proxy for social well-being. For example, researchers in a study involving school children concluded that prosocial video games were significantly related to the ability to cooperate, share, and maintain positive relationships with each other outside of the game. (Halbrook, Y. J., O'Donnell, A. T., & Msetfi, R. M., 2019)

According to (Howarth, 2024), Globally, there are approximately 3.09 billion active video game players. Asia has more than twice a number more gamers than any other region (1.48 billion). In fact, Asia has more active gamers than Europe, Latin America, and North America combined (1.42 billion). The popularity of online gaming in the Philippines is on the rise. According to a report by Newzoo, a leading provider of market intelligence for the gaming industry, the Philippines has a total of 43 million gamers, with a projected growth of 14.3% between 2020 and 2023. The rise in popularity of online gaming in the Philippines can be attributed to a variety of factors, including the increasing availability of high-speed internet, the growing number of smartphone users, and the rise of eSports.

Philippine Mythology is a treasure trove of rich narratives, cultural heritage, and moral lessons that have been passed down through generations. Yet, the challenge lies in making these stories come alive for today's tech-savvy Filipino students. The purpose of this study is to assess the effectiveness of integrating gaming into the exploration of Philippine Mythology.

Statement of the Problem

According to a researcher's personal experience in playing mobile games, it has been observed that mobile games can offer a benefit in every player's mental health. These games allow players to escape from stress, anxiety, and real-world problems even for only a short period of time.

Therefore, the primary goal of this study is to create a game that gives an interactive and user friendly that can offer an exciting game and serve the player as a temporary escape from the challenges of daily life.

Specifically, it shall seek to address the following questions:

1. What are the hardware and software requirements of the proposed project?
2. What are the features of the proposed project?
3. What is the level of acceptability of the proposed project?

Objectives of the Study

Mobile games are now a common and essential component of contemporary leisure and pleasure in a world that is becoming more and more digital. People now have easy access to a wide variety of gaming experiences thanks to how commonplace cellphones are, giving them a chance to temporarily tune out from the pressures of reality.

"Mythical Defense," primary goal is to entertain players, providing them with an enjoyable and immersive gaming experience. However, the game goes beyond entertainment by incorporating elements of Filipino mythology.

Specifically, it aims to achieve the following:

1. To identify the software and hardware requirements of the proposed project.
2. To enumerate the features of the proposed project.

3. To determine the acceptability level of the proposed project.

Scope and Delimitation

The study aimed to examine the reception and effects of a tower defense game that features well-known Philippine mythology creatures, such as the tiyanak (small vampiric creature), kapre (tree-dwelling giant), tikbalang (horse-like spirit), etc.

The scope of this project involves creating a post-apocalyptic tower defense game set in a world ravaged by a monster outbreak. Players will defend their settlements against waves of monsters and hostile scavengers across diverse settings. An interactive tutorial will introduce players to essential mechanics such as building defensive towers, resource management, and understanding enemy behaviors. The game will feature power-ups that provide temporary boosts to defenses or abilities, adding depth to strategic decisions. Core gameplay will revolve around tower defense mechanics, requiring players to strategically position defensive towers to thwart enemy advances. Various tower types will offer unique abilities. The primary goal will be survival, as players endure increasingly challenging waves of enemies while fortifying settlements to ensure humanity's survival in this unforgiving world. A backstory will be integrated, revealing the origin of the monster outbreak and the dire circumstances humanity faces, driving the need for settlement defense and survival.

However, it is important to acknowledge the limitations of the study. Firstly, not all Philippine Mythical creatures are present in the said game, it will only focus on well-known mythical creatures. Secondly, the game will be designed as a single-level experience, meaning that players will not progress through multiple levels as in traditional games. Lastly, the game will only be accessible on Android devices, potentially limiting its audience reach to users of other platforms such as iOS or PC. These limitations will be discarded upon updates.

Significance of the Study

This section of the study provides an information and explanation for the readers to understand how the study will contribute and who will benefit from it.

The outcome of the study will benefit the following:

To the Students/Users. The game development study is a logic and strategy game, it will help students to enhance their decision-making skills through gameplay. Also, this study will help students to familiarize themselves with the mythical creatures of the Philippines.

To the Researcher. This study will provide the researchers with new experiences and knowledge that they can use in their future work in their field.

To the Developer. This study will provide developers with new experiences and knowledge that they can include in their portfolios for future work.

To the Future Researcher. This study will provide useful reference for students who want to conduct or develop related to this study which is the Mythical Defense: Legend of the Philippines.

To the Future Developer. This study will serve as a useful reference for students who want to develop a game similar to ours, "Mythical Defense: Legend of the Philippines."

Chapter 2

METHODOLOGY

This chapter introduces the software development methodology, describes the techniques used for data collection, and identifies the data sources.

Development Methodology

To establish a structured roadmap for the development of the game "Mythical Defense," the researcher has chosen to utilize a conventional SDLC (System Development Life Cycle) framework. This decision aims to streamline the management, supervision, and research aspects of the game's development process. Therefore, the researcher opted for the Scrum methodology within the Agile Software Methodology framework, considering it the most suitable approach for the study.

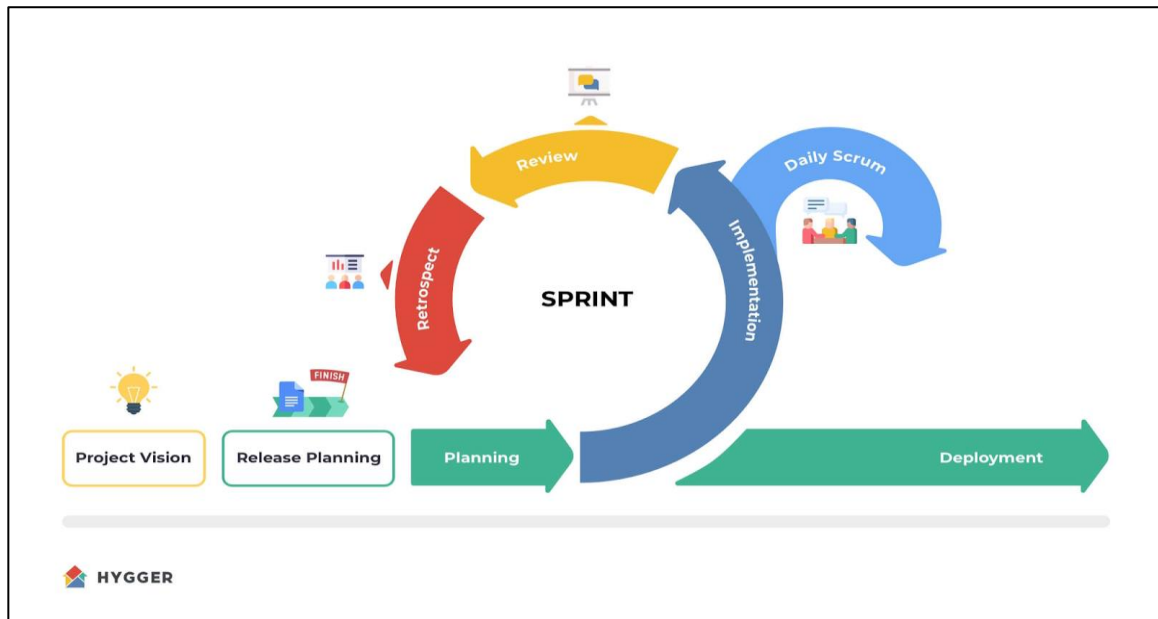

"Scrum is an agile development methodology used in the development of Software based on iterative and incremental processes. Scrum is an adaptable, fast, flexible and effective agile framework that is designed to deliver value to the customer throughout the development of the project" (S, B., & Sutherland, J., 2024).

Given that the primary objective of the proposed project is to ensure user's gaming satisfaction, the development of individual modules will be aligned with and driven by user needs and preferences. Hence, the researcher employed the Scrum methodology for gathering data directly from users, with the intention of incorporating it into the project.

Processes of Scrum

Scrum has the following processes:

1. Initiation Phase. In this phase, the team discusses the vision of the project, essentially crafting a roadmap that defines primary objectives, goals, and deliverables. Additionally, stakeholders are identified, team member roles are established, and the project backlog is scrutinized to determine epics.

2. Planning and Estimate Phase. In this phase, the development team engages in sprint planning. During this process, the team selects the user stories they intend to address in the upcoming sprint, forming what is known as a sprint backlog.

3. Implementation Phase. In this phase, the development team selects and works on user stories or PBIs (Product Backlog Items) chosen for the sprint. They hold daily standup meetings to track progress and address obstacles, ensuring efficient development work throughout the sprint.

4. Review and Retrospective Phase. In this phase, a sprint review of completed work is presented to the stakeholders and gathers their feedback, a sprint retrospective focuses on team reflection and process improvement. These phases foster transparency, collaboration, and adaptability by aligning the product with stakeholder expectations and encouraging continuous improvement within the Scrum team. They contribute to the success of Scrum projects by working together to foster a culture of responsibility and agility.

5. Release Phase. In this phase, completing and delivering the product increment to the end user or customer is the main focus. This includes activities such as comprehensive testing, documentation, and preparation for deployment. The goal is to ensure that the product is safe to release to the market or users. The release phase refers to the completion of the development cycle and the introduction of the product to the target group. A smooth and successful release requires coordination and cooperation among team members.

Population and Locale of the Study

The study took place at PHINMA-University of Pangasinan, involving a total of 100 students. Out of these, 56 were male students, and the remaining 44 were female students. This diverse group of participants from the university formed the sample for the study, providing valuable insights and data for the research.

Data Gathering Techniques

This section will discuss the method or technique that researchers used to gather data and investigate the level of interest exhibited by the target respondents in relation to the study. This provided valuable insights to the researchers, helping them identify key aspects to incorporate into their study to enhance the proposed project.

Survey Questionnaire. The survey questionnaire is a method employed by the researcher to gather data in support of their studies. This method utilizes an online platform to make respondents feel comfortable while answering the survey questions. The questionnaire consists of multiple-choice questions in which respondents are asked about their interests in specific types of video games.

Simple Random Sampling. The researcher used a simple random sampling method to conduct the survey. The researcher randomly selected students from PHINMA-University of Pangasinan by sharing the link of the survey questionnaire through social media platforms, specifically using Facebook Messenger. The survey questionnaire created by the researcher was made accessible only to students of the PHINMA-University of Pangasinan, ensuring that only eligible participants could respond.

Sources of Data

In the process of gathering data, researchers used the survey questionnaire method as a primary source.

Students from PHINMA-University of Pangasinan are selected as the respondents of the study. Nowadays, video games have become a really popular form of entertainment, particularly among students. This survey might help respondents to know their interest in video games. This will provide valuable insights into their gaming habits and choices.

Number of respondents of the study presented in the table below:

Table 1

Respondents of the Study

| Sex    | No. of Respondents |
|--------|--------------------|
| Male   | 56                 |
| Female | 44                 |
| Total  | 100                |

A total of 100 students were randomly selected from PHINMA-University of Pangasinan.

Treatment of Data

This section elucidates the techniques and processes employed for data collection, processing, and analysis in a study focused on understanding player engagement with video games. Ensuring the trustworthiness and accuracy of the data is paramount throughout the research journey.

Data Collection. To acquire comprehensive insights into player engagement, a structured questionnaire consisting of 16 questions for the survey with the target of 100 respondents was designed. This approach aims to explore the complex details of how players experience a particular game.

Data Processing. Maintaining data consistency while collecting information using a combination of broad and Likert-scale questions is vital for accurate analysis. This has been achieved through careful questionnaire design, which highlights the importance of uniformity in language, response options, and the provision of clear instructions.

Data Analysis. Quantitative analysis was at the core of the team's investigation. This encompassed the application of descriptive statistics, correlation analysis, and regression modeling. These statistical techniques allowed the team to quantitatively explore the relationships between player engagement and various gaming factors. The approach in analyzing player engagement was primarily quantitative. The research was initiated by conducting an online survey, engaging 100 individuals who self-identified as enthusiastic video game players. The survey explored a spectrum of aspects, including gaming preferences, duration of play, preferred genres, perceived enjoyment, and gaming behaviors

Data Storage and Backup. In our pursuit of data security, we employed Google Sheets to safeguard against data loss. Furthermore, the data entered by users in the form was automatically stored to prevent any loss of data in case anomalies occurred. Lastly, all data were securely stored on encrypted servers, with exclusive access granted to authorized members of the research team. Regular data backups were executed as a measure to preserve data integrity.

Ethical Consideration

To uphold ethical standards, the team diligently secured informed consent from all survey participants. They are provided with assurances of data confidentiality and anonymity. Our research protocol underwent a rigorous review process by the Institutional Review Board to ensure strict adherence to ethical guidelines.

Security and Privacy of Data. In terms of data security and privacy, the researchers implemented access restrictions to guarantee the confidentiality of all quantitative data.

This means that only the scrum master was allowed to view or manipulate the quantitative data. These measures were put in place to safeguard the sensitive information and ensure that it remained inaccessible to unauthorized parties, thereby upholding the privacy and security standards of the data. Furthermore, the data was exclusively received within the PHINMA organization only to prevent any possibility of data manipulation by malicious individuals.

Fair and Inclusive Design. To ensure an inclusive gaming experience for players regardless of their background, abilities, or identity, the game incorporates diverse characters and units, offers accessible gameplay and tutorials, embraces an inclusive storytelling approach, represents diversity in visuals and artwork, and demonstrates a commitment to continuous updates and improvements that enhance inclusivity and accessibility, all contributing to a welcoming and enjoyable gaming environment for a broad player base.

Transparency of Information. Transparency in gaming data encompasses providing players with easy access to essential game details, such as mechanics and statistics, in a clear and understandable manner. It guarantees that players gain a comprehensive understanding of the game's inner workings and how their data gets utilized. This transparency empowers players to make informed choices, fosters trust, and enriches the gaming experience by reducing potential confusion, frustration, or distrust linked to game mechanics.

In the context of game development, these forms are often distributed to players or testers to gather feedback on different aspects of the game.

The designed Questions for assessing the Mythical Defense: Legend of the Philippines were structured using a Likert Scale format for respondents to easily make choices in terms of their degree of agreement or disagreement on certain issues involving the research study. Likert Scaling is the most widely used approach to scaling responses in survey research. It offers a choice of pre-coded responses in survey research with the undecided point being neither agree nor disagree.

Table 10

The evaluation questions for assessing the mobile application game system's acceptability were divided into four key areas: Learnability and Ease of Use, Engagement and Enjoyment, Overall Satisfaction, and Interface and Design. To find out the acceptability of the proposed system, we computed the weighted mean for each criterion. The Weighted Mean, also referred to as the weighted average, is calculated by assigning weights to each criterion based on their relative importance and then averaging the scores accordingly. This approach ensures that factors deemed more crucial to the overall acceptability of the system carry more weight in the final assessment

Below are the set of evaluation formulas used by the researchers to arrive at the interpretation and analysis of the data gathered from the respondents.

1. The mean is the arithmetic average of a set of values.

$$\text{Mean (M)} = \frac{f (X_1 + X_2 + \dots + X_n)}{n}$$

Where:

f = frequency or number of times that a given number (x) was chosen by the respondents as a rating for a given criterion.

X1, X2 ... Xn = represents any of the numerical ratings 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 representing the evaluator's rating for each given criterion.

n = refers to the total number of respondents

2. The Weighted Mean is computed as follows:

$$\text{Weighted Mean (WM)} = \frac{\sum f (X1 + X2 + \dots Xn)}{n}$$

n

Where:

$\sum f (X1 + X2 + \dots Xn)$  = represents the sum of all means (M)

n = refers to the total number of criteria for evaluation.
