Pre-Activity: Management Everywhere

Activity Instructions

You have not yet formally studied Organization and Management, so you are not expected to research or provide textbook definitions for this activity. There are no perfect answers. Your responses should be based on your own observations, experiences, and understanding.

Choose ONE organization that you are familiar with (Example: restaurant, café, hotel, etc.) then answer the following.

Part I: Getting to know the Organization

1. Name or describe the organization that you selected.

Jollibee Foods Corporation, simply known as Jollibee, is one of the most successful organizations in the Philippines. It started in 1978 as a small ice cream parlor in Quezon City and later became the biggest fast-food chain in the country. Today, Jollibee is not only a business, but also a symbol of Filipino culture, family, and happiness.

2. What does this organization do? (Explain its main purpose).

Jollibee stores are made for families and celebrations. People go there for birthdays, meetings, and bonding. The cheerful stores, mascot, and slogan "Bida ang Saya" make customers feel happy and welcome.

3. Who are the five people that are involved in the organization? (Include their positions – names are optional).

Chairman, Country Manager, Store Manager, Service Crew, President.

4. Who do you think manages or leads the organization? Why?

President and CEO because he manages the entire business. He makes big decisions about new products, store openings, budgets and expansion to other country.

5. What do you think will happen if no one manages the organization?

President and CEO The head of daily operations Why he leads He manages the entire business. He makes big decisions about new products, store openings, budgets, and expansion to other countries.

Part II – Observe Management in Action

Based on your observation or experience, identify one example of each of the following. You do not need to know the formal management concepts yet.

6. GOAL: What is one goal that you think the organization wants to achieve?
Jollibee's main goal is to serve great-tasting food with fast and friendly service*. The company wants every customer to experience "joy" through affordable meals like Chickenjoy, Jolly Spaghetti, and Peach Mango Pie. By providing consistent quality and quick service in dine-in, take-out, and delivery, Jollibee wants to be the go-to restaurant for families and individuals.
7. PLANNING: Give one example of something the organization needs to prepare or plan before doing it.
Supplies and Equipment Jollibee has to order kitchen equipment, furniture, ingredients, packaging, and uniforms. They also coordinate with suppliers to make sure food stocks will arrive on opening day.
8. PEOPLE: How are responsibilities or tasks divided among the people in the organization?
Store Manager Responsibility: Run one Jollibee branch schedule staff, check food quality, handle customer concerns, manage inventory, and make sure daily sales targets are met. They are the link between management and crew.
9. LEADERSHIP: Give one example of how a manager, supervisor, owner, teacher, or leader might encourage people to do their jobs properly.
This shows three ways a leader encourages people. First he sets clear expectations* so everyone knows what "doing their job properly" means. Second he gives support by saying he will help on the floor instead of just watching from the office. Third he gives recognition through the "Crew of the Day" award and a small reward. Because of this, the crew feel motivated, valued, and responsible.
10. PROBLEM-SOLVING: Identify one possible problem that the organization may encounter. If you were the manager, what would you do about it?
I would encourage clear communication.* During rush hours, I would hold quick huddles to assign roles and check if everyone is okay. I would also go to the floor myself to help and guide the team.

Part III: Complete the following statements using your own words.

Answer the following with a minimum of 3 sentences and a maximum of 5 sentences.

1. For me, an organization is ... -An organization also needs *planning, teamwork, and leadership. Without planning, the work will be messy. Without teamwork, people won't help each other. And without a leader, no one will guide the group to reach its goal.
2. I think management is... -I also think management is about taking care of people. A manager encourages the team, trains them, listens to their concerns, and gives recognition when they do well. When employees feel supported, they work better and give better service to customers.

3. I think a good manager should-Most importantly, a good manager should communicate well so the team understands the goals of the organization.

4. An organization without good management would... -An organization without good management would be messy, unproductive, and unable to succeed.

5. One thing I want to learn about Organization and Management is... -Learning this is important because a good leader does not just give orders they guide, listen, and inspire people to do their best.
