

A. Essay

1. Do you consider yourself as an artist? Justify your answer.

Yes, I consider myself an artist because art is not limited to professionals or famous creators. Anyone who expresses thoughts, emotions, or ideas creatively can be considered an artist. Whether through writing, drawing, music, or other forms of expression, creating something meaningful reflects artistic ability.

2. What is the importance of Humanities as a Science of Art?

Humanities as a Science of Art is important because it studies human experiences, culture, values, and creativity in a systematic and critical way. It helps us understand how art reflects society, history, and identity. Through humanities, we learn to analyze, appreciate, and interpret artistic works beyond their surface meaning.

3. Which classification of art (Visual, Performing, Literary) do you think you belong? Why?

I believe I belong to Literary Art because I express ideas and emotions more effectively through writing. Through essays, poems, or stories, I can communicate thoughts clearly and creatively. Writing allows me to reflect deeply and connect with others through words.

B. Evaluation

Humanities

Humanities is the study of human culture, history, philosophy, language, and art. It focuses on understanding human experiences and how people think, create, and interact across time.

Arts

Arts refer to creative expressions of imagination and skill that communicate ideas, emotions, or stories. It can take many forms and allows people to express themselves beyond ordinary communication.

Visual Art

Visual art is art that we see. It includes drawing, painting, sculpture, photography, and design. It focuses on visual elements like color, shape, form, and texture.

Performing Art

Performing art is art that is performed in front of an audience. Examples include music, dance, theater, and acting. It involves movement, sound, and live expression.

Literary Art

Literary art uses written words to express ideas and emotions. Examples include poetry, short stories, novels, and essays. It focuses on language, storytelling, and creative writing.